Little Miss Rebellion, Derothy Gish's latest Paramount picture, which is coming to the 'Davis theater tomorrow is said to set a new record for laughs induced by thig chic hitle comedienne.

The second feature is Katherine MacDonald in Passion's Playground. The best thing Katherine MacDonald has done to date is this story of a convent bred girl who goes to Monte Carlo, and because of her winnings becomes the conter of attraction. To save a grif friend who has run away from the convent with a married man Mary Grant keeps elient, and by so doing admits herself as the gulky party. Then she disappears, and but for the timely intervention of an old friend, Prince Vanno Della Bobbin, who loved the Seautifut girl, would never have found her. However, things turned out all right in the end, and as the fairy tales say—"they lived happily ever afterwards." If you have never seen the famous Monte Carlo, you'll enjoy the scenes in this picture; if you have seen it, you'll probably ggt a touch of the fewer again.
